Bravo . . . she leaves clinic yesterday

EASTENDER Natalie Cassidy was busted by The Sun yesterday — after getting a boob job.

Natalie, who plays cheated wife Sonia, checked in for a £4,000 op to boost her 36B assets.

We spotted the Albert Square favourite looking just swell as she emerged from hospital. Natalie, 21, told us: "I feel groggy from the operation but I'm fine. I just need some time to recover now. But thanks to The Sun for your support." The actress had stayed overnight at the private Highgate Hospital in North London.

Wearing a grey and pink tracksuit, sunglasses and baseball cap, she walked gingerly to a waiting car and was driven off.

Chatting

The Highgate takes patients from Harley Street and plastic surgery firm Transform. Glamour girls Jordan and Melinda Messenger have both had ops there.

Single Natalie, who recently said, "I don't claim to be a super-model", went under the knife on Wednesday.

Another patient, who was discharged as the star checked in, said: "I had just has a boob job myself. I suddenly spotted Sonia from EastEnders as I was leaving.

"She was chatting with the receptionist and asked if her two friends could stay with her while she waited for the operation.

"The receptionist told her they could make allowances as it was her and said she could also stay a little longer after the op.

"I was going to ask for her autograph — but I decided it wasn't the time or the place."

Natalie, who lives in North London, earns £80,000 as Martin Fowler's new wife.

She won Best Actress at the 2001 Brit Soap Awards.
